

David Cain

Senior Advisor, London

David started his structured finance career in the mid-90s in the Global Securitised Finance Group of Chase Manhattan prior to its merger with JP Morgan, with overall responsibility for corporate and acquisition finance related asset-backed transactions throughout Europe.

He subsequently joined the Rothschild Group where he founded their Structured Finance Advisory business and developed their European securitisation activity in line with their core strength in corporate finance and debt advisory. This encompassed design and implementation of a number of strategic initiatives in structured capital markets, leading to Executive Director status and a Board level appointment by 2003.

Following an extensive City career, David became Principal of a number of independent advisory firms and, at European Risk Capital, he is responsible for transactions primarily in respect of Non-Bank Financials and Real Estate. His expertise extends to structured capital fundraising, debt restructuring and acquisitions in consumer finance, commercial finance, corporate finance and overall property sectors.

David's multi billion dollar track record is spread across a wide range of asset classes, from credit cards and residential mortgages to auto leasing and life settlements. He has structured and led a multitude of complex deals, including arrangement of a GBP400m UK credit card portfolio acquisition, debt raising of a EU200m structured facility for a Netherlands based mortgage lender, and arrangement of a GBP100m funding line for a leading independent auto finance company.

David is a CPA with an MBA from the Rotterdam School of Management and a BS in Accounting from University of Illinois. He is married with two children and lives in London.
